Key Takeaways

The price of custom electrical display cabinets varies widely depending on materials, size, design complexity, and additional features, typically ranging from a few hundred to several thousand dollars per unit. Factors Affecting Custom Pricing1. Materials: Cabinets can be made from stainless steel, iron (SPCC, SECC, SPTE, tinplate), aluminum alloy, red copper, brass, or bronze alloy.

Premium materials like stainless steel or copper alloys increase cost due to durability and aesthetic appeal ( ). 2. Size and Design Complexity: Larger cabinets or those with intricate designs, multiple compartments, or specialized shelving will cost more.

Custom dimensions and unique layouts require additional engineering and fabrication ( ). 3. Surface Finishes: Options such as powder coating, zinc plating, hot-dip galvanizing, silkscreen printing, or polishing affect pricing.

High-quality finishes improve corrosion resistance and visual appeal but add to production costs ( ). 4. Custom Features: Features like LGF backlight membrane switches, adjustable shelves, hooks, baskets, or integrated LED displays increase the price.

OEM/ODM services, where cabinets are made according to customer drawings or samples, also add to cost ( ). 5. Manufacturing and Quality Control: Factories with ISO9001: 2008 certification, ERP management systems, and advanced machinery (laser cutting, CNC punching, bending, welding) ensure high-quality production but may charge a premium ( ).

6. Quantity and Lead Time: Bulk orders often reduce per-unit cost, while small or one-off custom orders are more expensive. Shorter lead times may also increase pricing due to expedited production ( ).
