Huijue Cable Tray Support Sets are used to securely mount and support cable trays in commercial and industrial installations. These sets often include brackets, clamps, and fasteners designed to maintain structural integrity and proper cable management. The cost depends on factors such as: Material: Steel (galvanized or stainless) is more expensive than aluminum or plastic components.

Load capacity: Heavy-duty support sets for large cable trays cost more than light-duty sets. Design: L-brackets, U-brackets, and cantilever arms may have different pricing based on complexity. Supplier and region: Prices vary between distributors, online marketplaces, and direct factory purchases.
