What cable tray should the charging station s wiring be routed through

Overview

Cable trunking and trough-style cable tray provide more enclosure for control wiring, communication cables, and building-side routes. They can help protect cables from dust, accidental contact, and local activity. The route may begin at a transformer or switchboard, pass through an outdoor equipment area, enter a canopy or parking garage, and then branch to charger pedestals or wall-mounted chargers. It helps prevent overheating, mechanical damage, electromagnetic interference, and allows for future expansion. When integrated with IEC standards, planning becomes more reliable and. Installation of Cable in Cable Trays involves precise routing on support systems, NEC/IEC compliance, grounding, ampacity derating, bend radius control, segregation of services, fire safety, labeling, and reliable cable management for industrial and commercial facilities. Here is the summary of the main points found in NEC Article.
